

Are you ready to get back to what you do best? You and your staff chose this profession to care for patients, not deal with insurance and accounting.

My name is Kristi Gray and I'd like to introduce you to ClaimsNest.

First, a little bit about myself. After 23 years of managing and working in dental offices, I took a job with a "well-known" remote dental billing company. I spent most of those days disappointed that the clients weren't getting the attention and results they were paying for. Outsourced billing is a great idea, but it has to be done the right way. That's why I started ClaimsNest.

Right now, your front office staff are pulled in a thousand directions at once. They have a pile of payments that need posted. The A/R report is collecting dust. There are stacks of appeals letters that need to be drafted. The phone is ringing. And, denials are about to get written off or worse, a surprise bill for your patient. All of this is happening while they should be hyper-focused on the lifeline of your office: keeping your schedule full and the patient.

ClaimsNest can handle all of those headaches. This allows you and your staff to get back to what you do best: caring for the patient.

As the doctor, do you know how much you've lost to claim denials or how many claims you have in the over 30, 60, 90+ category? What could you do with the money that is sitting on your A/R report?
